

No Turning Back

written by Gary Marks © 2012 Marksland Entertainment

Some of us fear the dark
Some of us fear the light Someone needs to love, someone needs to be free to find love in their own time.

Some never find their way
They don't know what they feel
Don't be one of them, don't let them steal what's yours this time.
You know it's all brand new.

No Turning Back
Take the chance if you know it's true
No Turning Back
Illuminate what's in front of you
Ohh oh, accelerate and go
No turning back

Some of us wonder why until we never know
Some of us wait for things that just won't ever show
Til we're here, at war with the world

No Turning Back
Take the chance if you know it's true
No Turning Back
Illuminate where we're going to
Oh oh, accelerate and go
No turning back.

Chaos flows on through
I watch the colors turn to a shade of you

Someday it all collides like it's meant to be
And when the atoms clear
What's left is you and me, close as a breath
A dream of breathing together

No Turning Back to the past if you know it's true
No Turning Back
Illuminate what's coming through
Oh oh, accelerate and go
No turning back

Words

written by Gary Marks © 2012 Marksland Entertainment

In a life of wandering
Never cross a diamond mine
With too much money to burn
Walking into hunted lands
Perilously blind
You may find there's just too much to learn
Until you find yourself pleading

No more words. No more words
They can't help us escape
Though we'll never run out of things to say
A place, a place
Where no man is burdened anymore
Wisdom comes only when we stop the war
Is freedom found anywhere?
Is freedom everywhere?
Oh yeah, another paradox alarm
Frozen as the days fly
Like a painting in a frame
We remain imprisoned by our own hand
With the colors slowly changing

No more words to define me
To tell me all about my dreams.
You know I'll always dream of you anyway.
Gimme sun, gimme love, gimme messages from above
Tell me 'bout all the things that words can't say

"I love you" written down on a page without a kiss Only we endure a crazy fate like this

Yeah words, swords, selling trinkets to the soul.
Trying to find salvation while we fight the world.

Hey love, real love, without the tears and lies can you whisper something more than words this time
Hey love, an angel, with angels at your side
Can you whisper something more than words
. . . this time

Wake

written by Gary Marks © 2012 Marksland Entertainment

We walked to the top of the wave
Touched the peak of the sunrise all ablaze Crazy blue floating down as we feel
The time like a pulse til we know it's real

Our colors shine
Good morning stranger
Time to wake

We walk through the streets of our town
Lights blurred and frozen from drops of rain
Somehow the moon still appears
Through the clouds and the wind and the winter years

Time falls like snow
Good morning coldness
Time to wake

We sit at the top of the stairs
Looking out to the life that we tried to share
And your eyes seem to swirl like the day
That we met and you walked me into the waves

Good morning night
World starts to fade now
Time to wake

Circling the World

written by Gary Marks © 2012 Marksland Entertainment

Every mind circles a world
tries to find the sun it left behind

Each heart learns to seek Loneliness to prove that love can set it free

And when the movement's finally ended
And everything reveals itself to be
1. Mirages made of marble white skiesand desire.
2. A waterfall falling into fire

Don't go tumbling down
Where the world goes distant and love is full of doubt.
Questions why fall like rain
Why should love need a reason anyway

Leave me alone with you maybe we'll see that we are meant to be
I'd go
Into your eyes
To find
The deepest things alive in me

Say yes. Don't fall.
Why turn the heart to darkness
Why build another wall.
Why enshrine what steals the soul
Tell me why should we believe that anymore?

We'll never get another chance to be when this day is gone

the sun it left behind ... long ago

Out My Window

written by Gary Marks © 2012 Marksland Entertainment

Noise is symphony
Dreams play cymbals in time
No one knows the song
That's been playin' all night

I can hear it out my window
When I can't sleep
I can see it in reflections
As the world passes by

Sometimes when I
Have no place to go
I feel the stars shine in Clocks start to slow, and it's a good night. J

Shadows paint the street
Music floating on by
We don't speak a word
We're just around for the ride

I can see it out my window
When I can't sleep
All the mannequins are dancing
If I don't blink my eyes

Sometimes when we
Have no place to go
All the stars are racing in Nothing to show, and it's a good night.

And it's a good night
Out my window with you

Bells from Town

written by Gary Marks © 2012 Marksland Entertainment

He walks to his gate looking a little thin
Feeling the rain high in the northern wind
Hearing the bells from town
Her face fades in a sun beam pouring down
Gone now

Over the stage visions upon a screen
Feeling the time ticking away from him
As he remembers the spot light heat, explosion of applause
Gone now

Oh take me away
Shining lights that lock into the changes
But your face it's still your face

Waterfall eyes turn into windy seas
Leave me in peace. Go beyond memories.
Hearing the bells from town
Turn into random colors and be gone.
Be gone now

Oh take me away
Shining lights that lock into the changes
But your face it's still your face
In front of me

Right Reasons at the Time

written by Gary Marks © 2012 Marksland Entertainment

A child is born with the sun rising brightly
"Everything's alright - as it's always been."
That's the message sung by three birds at the doorstep
Til the falling rain begins

Oh, and he hears the voices
Warning him of troubles in the wind
And for all the right reasons at the time
He leaves it all behind

And an old man sleeps as the sun is setting grayly
Memories of heartbreak and minor sins
Long forgotten sounds that beckoned from his doorstep Life lived from outside in

Oh, and we hear the voices
Warning us of troubles in the wind
And for all the right reasons at the time
Three birds are left behind
This life.
